Prison Toughies Seize Nine Hostages

STROUD UNION School District came into official being last night at 8.

Loring Cramer, N. Fifth St., Stroud Township, was named president of the union board by the 15 board members attending. Other officers elected were: Henry J. LaBar, Delaware Water Gap, vice president; Samuel S. Everitt, 723 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, treasurer; and Herbert B. Crane, 603 Thomas St., Stroudsburg, board secretary.

School directors also gave their official stamp of approval to the name "Stroud Union School District" for the new school combination. The union district replaces the three separate school areas of Stroudsburg, Stroud Township and Delaware Water Gap.

Serve Until December
Under terms of the school code Cramer and LaBar will serve as president and vice president until the first Monday in December of this year. Everitt's term is for the school term beginning in September and ending in June, 1956.

School law provides that the term of the secretary—in this case, Crane—is to run until the first Monday in July, 1957.

In a fast-paced opening session the board members also cleared up a four-months batch of unofficial business discussed and accomplished in part, by the "de facto" board which has met since voters of the three areas gave their approval to the union last November.

The law counselling firm of Williams and Williams, Stroudsburg, was retained as solicitor for the board. Salary or retainer fee for the solicitor was set at $600 yearly.

Salaries Fixed
The salary of the treasurer for the union board was set at $600 annually. The secretary's salary was set at $1,200 per year. Each action was taken by roll call vote in the case of the solicitor, treasurer, secretary and other positions which are salaried. All carried unanimously.

Board members agreed upon the second Wednesday of each month as the regular meeting date for the union board. Bonds for the treasurer and secretary were fixed at $50,000 and $5,000 respectively.

After discussion of preliminary plans for a building program, board members approved, by unanimous vote, a motion to call the school building authority the "Stroudsburg Area School Authority." The step was taken on advice of counsel after consultation with experts who expressed an opinion that Stroudsburg's name should be included in the title of the authority due to the borough's reputation for solvency and the effect of the name on issuance and purchase of bonds.

Stroudsburg Security Trust Co. and First Stroudsburg National Bank were both named official depositories for the union district funds.

Independent District
The board approved a resolution asking that the Monroe County School Board be formally requested to designate the union district an independent district. This action—when approved by the county board and the State—makes the entire union a third class district which will not come under jurisdiction of administration of the county superintendent of schools.

The board approved a motion by Crane that the architectural firm of Rinker and Kiefer, Stroudsburg, be recommended to the school authority as architects for building plans now being drawn up.

A contract for installation of lighting for 10 classrooms in the schools in Stroudsburg borough was awarded to Larry S. Stout, Lehighton, whose low bid of $3,634 was received and opened last month at the final individual meeting of the borough board.

On the recommendation of Earl F. Groner, superintendent, the board unanimously approved the hiring of two teachers for the secondary school system.

Teachers Elected
Theodore Jones, 30, of Thornhurst, was elected to replace Thomas Knepp as biology instructor during the coming year. Knepp will be on a one-year leave from the school system while he is doing research on a Ford Foundation grant.

Jones will remain on the teaching staff in the future, Groner said, when increased facilities and expansion will make an added teaching position in the department necessary. Jones is a graduate of Tobyhanna Township High School, Pocono Pines, and of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. He received his master's degree from Pennsylvania State University and has done post-graduate work for his doctorate at the University of Michigan. His salary was set at $3,800 yearly.

William C. Peck, about 30, of Scotland, Pa., was named to replace William Keim in the secondary system English studies department. Keim resigned effective at the end of the past school year. Peck holds a master's degree in English from Columbia University in New York.

He has taught in the Scotland school system and has recently been on the teaching staff in the St. Thomas schools near Chambers.

Senate Approves Conditional Grant For Dixon-Yates Power, Votes Funds For TVA And AEC

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—The Senate voted $1,377,000,000 today for the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Atomic Energy Commission and other purposes. It left undisturbed a conditional 6½ million dollar item for the Dixon-Yates power project.

The action means that the 6½ million will be available, for linking this private power project to TVA lines, only if the city of Memphis fails to go ahead with plans to build its own electric power plant.

Most of the debate on this relatively small item, it was planned to build a transmission line that would feed Dixon-Yates power into the TVA system to replace power needed for atomic plants.

Depends On Memphis
Opponents of the Dixon-Yates project did not offer any amendment to knock out the 6½ million. They said privately they did not have the votes to win; they decided to rely on the provision as written by the Senate Appropriations Committee saying the money should be appropriated, but not be made available if Memphis makes a definite commitment to build within 90 days.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said he believed the Senate voted that he believed the Dixon-Yates contract will be cancelled if Memphis goes ahead with its plans. He spoke after meeting with President Eisenhower at lunch.

Knowland, the Republican leader in the Senate, said that if Memphis builds a plant, there would appear to be no need for the Dixon-Yates private plant.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said in debate today he believes Memphis will go ahead and "I am sure the President will cancel the contract in that event."

Refueller Critical
Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) criticized the administration plan for the Atomic Commission to do business with Dixon-Yates as "this iniquitous contract."

Meanwhile, the White House reported that Budget Director Rowland Hughes worked through the Fourth of July holiday on the review that President Eisenhower asked, dealing with whether to continue or cancel the contract to the Atomic Energy Commission negotiated with the Dixon-Yates private power interests.

INDIANA, Pa., July 5 (AP)—State police said today the bullet that killed 11-year-old Lois Mack as she sat in her yard possibly was fired by one of two boys hunting groundhogs a half mile away.

402 Traffic Deaths Over Holiday Set Record; Only 420 Died In Historic Bunker Hill Battle

By The Associated Press
MOTORISTS OUT to enjoy the holiday died in record numbers over the Fourth of July weekend.

Late reports showed at least 402 died in traffic accidents. The National Safety Council's preliminary estimate was 380. The previous record for a three-day Fourth of July holiday was 366, in 1952.

In the 78-hour period from 6 p. m. local time Friday to midnight Monday, at least 249 persons drowned and 143 died in miscellaneous mishaps, for an overall total of 794.

Celebrating Freedom
Ned H. Dearborn, National Safety Council president, said about 420 Americans were killed in the battle of Bunker Hill and he pointed to the heavy toll of traffic victims "celebrating the freedom" fought for at Bunker Hill and in similar Revolutionary War battles.

"Those who fell at Bunker Hill died for a cause," he added. "Can

Peron Seeks Truce With Adversaries

BUENOS AIRES, July 5 (AP)—President Juan D. Peron broadcast a message to the nation today designed to silence rumors his hold on the Argentine government was seriously weakened by the brief revolt against him June 16.

He said the enemies who then failed to assassinate him now have become rumor mongers attempting "sedition by telephone."

The keynote of the president's 11-minute address was a dramatic offer to declare a truce with his political adversaries.

Peron asserted the revolt was attempted by a few navy units with the aid of small groups of civilians. But he absolved the major opposition political parties of any participation.

Strongly Partisan
"I desire to faithfully acknowledge that I consider that the popular political parties are incapable of accepting criminal attempts against defenseless people," Peron said.

"I also consider that the political parties are now more strongly partisan to legality than to violence and that every day there are fewer political leaders who long for disturbance rather than peace."

Peron invited "responsible men" from the opposition to come to terms with him for reunification of the nation and called for "a truce in the political fight" regardless of the rumors that might be spread by "bad-intentioned enemies."

He told the nation that the situation in Buenos Aires is completely normal and said the revolt never extended beyond its city limits.

No Mention of Coalition
Peron made no direct allusion to formation of a coalition government or to any other changes in his administration.

Shortly before he spoke, he announced that one of his inner circle his press secretary, Raul A. Apold, had resigned after six years of service because of ill health. He is being replaced by Leon Bouche, 53, a newspaperman, lecturer and magazine editor. Bouche was sworn in at noon as head of the sprawling and controversial propaganda agency, which has wide control of the press through the government newspaper monopoly, supervises movies, radio and television and issues credentials for foreign correspondents.

The tone of Peron's speech was almost conciliatory, but he demonstrated his accustomed attitude of firm control of the situation.

Fire Attributed To Boy Damages Eight Houses

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 (AP)—Thirty-six persons were forced to leave their homes today because of a fire attributed to a six-year-old boy playing with matches.

Lt. David Reeves of the Fire Marshal's Office said the youngster, James Major, told him the blaze spread to eight nearby homes including his own, after the boy lit some matches.

Lt. Reeves said the boy survived a fire that took the lives of a brother and sister in December, 1952, when the family was living at another address.

No charges have been filed. No one was hurt in today's blaze and there was no immediate estimate of the damage.

Biggest Single Traffic Accident
The biggest single traffic accident over this year's holiday was near Iowa City, Iowa, where eight persons were killed in an automobile collision, almost wiping out two families.

Daredevil Killed
Mike Kelly, a daredevil bicyclist, died in one of the nation's most spectacular accidents, at Hillsboro, Ore. Kelly rode his bicycle down a ramp and leaped on the machine through a wall of fire, through a sheet of plate glass, and over two parked automobiles. However, he missed landing on an other ramp and was killed before 1,000 spectators.

By The Associated Press
PENNSYLVANIA had its highest toll of violent deaths over the long Fourth of July weekend for any comparable period this year. The tragic figure mounted to 33, with 15 deaths on the state's highways, 11 drownings and 4 from other causes.

Woman Answers $32,000 Question Correctly, Now Has Option Of Trying For Grand Prize

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Mrs. Catherine E. Kreitzer, a devout Bible reader all her life, tonight won $32,000 on the television show "The $64,000 Question."

Next week she has her option of trying for $64,000 or retiring with her $32,000.

Mrs. Kreitzer, 54, of Camp Hill, Pa., won her big money tonight with a complicated three-part question about the disciples of Jesus.

The names of Peter and Matthew, plus James The Greater and James The Less, were given her. Then she was asked to name the other eight disciples.

Knitting her expressive eyebrows in a frown, the bespectacled woman faltered. She named Andrew, Philip, Bartholomew, Thaddeus, Thomas, Simon and Judas Iscariot, but left out John.

The tension mounted, and Mrs. Kreitzer's poise and composure seemed about to crack. Then she went down the list of the 12 disciples and this time came up with the missing name.

Mrs. Kreitzer breezed right through the remaining parts of the question, Peter, she said, earned his living as a fisherman; Matthew was a tax collector.

The final part seemed, perhaps, the most difficult — name the father of James The Less. But Mrs. Kreitzer knew the disciple as James, son of Alphaeus, so she had no trouble naming the father.

Mrs. Kreitzer's progress to the $32,000 was strung out over several weeks, first getting up to $8,000, then $16,000 last week. If she had missed, she still would have received a consolation prize of an automobile.

Mrs. Kreitzer now has gone farther than any other contestant on the recently inaugurated show.

The highest previous winner was Redmond O'Hanlon, a New York City cop with an expert knowledge of Shakespeare, who won $16,000 and decided to keep it rather than risk it in trying for $32,000.

Temperature Soars To 101

THE MERCURY soared to a blistering 101 degrees yesterday in Stroudsburg.

It was the hottest day of the year. It was also hotter in Stroudsburg than nearly any other place in the nation.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, for example, temperatures reached 100 in Williamsport, 99 in Middletown, 98 in Reading and Selinsgrove, 97 in Allentown, Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

Some relief from the collar-wetting, steamy weather came to the Poconos at dusk last night when a sudden summer thunderstorm spread cooling winds through most of the area.

More Hot Weather
The relief will probably be short-lived, however, official observers noted. Continued hot, humid weather is expected today, with possibly a greater number of thundershowers throughout the state and a corresponding drop in the temperatures into the middle 90s.

Yesterday's low temperature reading, according to observer Pierre Lake in Stroudsburg was 64 degrees. It was 74 degrees at 8 a. m. and 75 degrees last night at 8.

Anti-Red Refugee Killed By Bomb In Mailed Parcel

MUNICH, Germany, July 5 (AP)—A bomb wrapped in a mail parcel today killed a Slovak anti-Communist refugee leader who had served in his country under Nazi occupation in World War II.

Besides instantly killing Matus Cernak, 50, as he unwrapped the parcel in the suburban Schwabing postoffice, the bomb killed an aged woman bystander, injured 13 persons and wrecked the mail delivery room.

Schwabing is an artists' colony and a rallying place for refugees from behind the Iron Curtain.

Criminal police in identifying Cernak figured the assassins had scored a bulls-eye. They apparently had got their intended victim after a study of his habits, including that of calling personally for mail parcels and opening them in the postoffice.

Mother, 5 Tots Dies In Crash
ALLENSGROVE, Wis., July 5 (AP)—A 35-year-old woman and five of her children were killed today, when a speeding passenger train hit an automobile at a country crossing.

Five other persons in the car were injured critically, four of them her children.

The dead were: Mrs. Marjorie Smith, of Beloit, and her children, Jacqueline, 4; Debbie, one year; "Skipper," a boy, three months old; Larry, 16; and Keith, 6.

Doctor Orders Dent To Rest

HARRISBURG, July 5 (AP)—Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic State Chairman, said today that Sen. John H. Dent, Senate Democratic floor leader, has been ordered by his physician to take a complete rest.

Barr said Dent had gone to Florida on orders of his doctor after he complained recently about his health.

Bolt Sets Off Warning Signal
JIM THORPE, July 5 (AP)—A thunderstorm short circuited the civil defense alert system here to night and a preliminary warning signal blared through Bucks, Lehigh and Northampton counties. It took about five minutes to repair the short and an all-clear signal was given.

The storm did accomplish some good. Momentarily, at least, it provided relief from the heat wave that has been churning the state. Temperatures have hovered between the mid and high 90s.

Location Survey For Thruway Nearing Completion; Cost Now Estimated At $60,000

LOCATION SURVEY for the proposed thruway around the Stroudsburg, costing $60,000 instead of the original $15,000 estimate, is reported to be nearing completion.

A spokesman for the State Highway Department said that a contract for the design study of the proposed thruway is to be pressed as rapidly as possible after location survey studies are completed.

Secretary of Highways Joseph J. Lawler has listed the Stroudsburg thruway for early prosecution, along with a similar project for York, another in the Lancaster region and at Scranton.

Target date for operation of the local thruway has been fixed for 1957.

The additional $45,000 expenditure on location survey studies was authorized to provide the most exacting data on locations. These proposals will come under scrutiny of the State Highway Department and local officials, highway department officials emphasized.

The engineering firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corbly, & Carpenter, Inc., Harrisburg, have the location survey contract. The firm is noted for its turnpike and airport engineer and highway consultant services.

Hot Weather Grips Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heat blasted most of the nation again Tuesday while a cool front which could bring relief hung tantalizingly not far south of the Canadian border.

One death was attributed to heat in New York City where the mercury pushed up to 99 degrees. It reached 97 in Boston and Tucson. At the Newark, N. J., Airport the mercury touched 100 degrees.

In some sections the warm air mass swelled northward. Dickinson, N. D., had a high of 68 Monday and a high of 87 Tuesday.

By contrast, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Butte, Mont., recorded only 58. They were on the cool side of a line extending from eastern Montana southwestward across extreme southeastern Idaho, central Nevada and California.

From eastern Montana the cool line extended across the Northern Plains states, the northern portions of the Great Lakes states and northern New England.

South of the line temperatures ranged from the upper 80s into the high 90s and an occasional 100 or so. Precipitation was a confined mainly to scattered thundershowers in parts of the Mississippi Valley and eastward.

Five Men Die In Collision Of Two Trains
FORT SUMNER, N. M., July 5 (AP)—Five men perished in flaming wreckage and three more were injured early today when two Santa Fe Railway freight trains smashed head-on.

Four bodies have been recovered. Search for the fifth has been hampered by flames which broke out in diesel oil and have been fed by a car of acetate.

One thousand feet of track and a 48-foot bridge were torn up when one of the freights moved off a siding and the trains collided.

Ralph Ater of the Santa Fe office in Amarillo, said the westbound freight, going less than 20 miles per hour, had headed into a siding to let the eastbound freight pass. But the westbound train, instead of stopping, apparently went on through, colliding with the eastbound train which was rounding a curve at not more than 50 miles per hour.

The smashup was at Cardenas, 36 miles west of here on the eastern New Mexico plains.

Set Deadline For Action On Grievances

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 5 (AP)—Several scores tough and mean prisoners seized nine hostages and control of half of the sprawling state prison today, then set a 24 hour deadline for improvement of treatment by custodial personnel.

The deadline was set in a conference with Dr. Thomas Harris, newly appointed state director of institutions, who met with three ringleaders of the revolt six hours after the hostages were seized at knife point.

The conferences were resumed after a supper break.

Hostage Badly Beaten
Two of the hostages, one of whom was badly beaten, were released but the others were being held in some remote cellblock. Aside from the brief angry outburst which damaged some kitchen implements, the revolt was marked by no particular violence, although half of the 1,784 prisoners in the institution were in the affected area.

Cells in the revolt area were opened by the 33 men who led the original revolt but the men in those wards were reported to be calmly walking about and maintaining discipline.

The quick coup was staged at 9:45 a. m. as the inmates walked through the administration section of the U-shaped structure, seizing Associate Warden Ted Bezzler and eight others.

Control Half of Prison
No attempt was made to leave the prison grounds and at 3 p. m., three of the ringleaders walked boldly across a prison court to meet with Dr. Harris.

Three hours later, the director reported the men had control of approximately 50 per cent of the prisoners and the physical plant.

"They have presented a list of grievances dealing mainly with their treatment by the custodial personnel," Dr. Harris said. "The plan at the present time is to meet individually with a large group of these inmates to hear their grievances as part of a plan for release of the hostages and return to control of the prison to the authorities."

"Assurances have been given that, once they have had the opportunity to air their grievances to me they will discuss returning control of the prison to the authorities."

One Life Terner
Prison officials withheld the names of the three ringleaders who walked across an open compound to meet Dr. Harris in an office.

They disclosed, however, that one was serving life for murder, another was involved in a prison knife episode recently and the third was a long-term moral offense prisoner, all considered "mean and tough."

GM Directors Recommend 3-1 Split Of Stock

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Directors of General Motors Corp. recommended today a three-for-one stock split to be voted on by stockholders at a special meeting Sept. 23.

Holders of record Aug. 8 will be eligible to vote in the meeting to be held at the GM offices near Wilmington, Del.

Subject to stockholders approval, it is contemplated that the issuance of the shares would commence on or about Oct. 10.

At the same special meeting, the stockholders will be asked to approve the recently announced revisions in the pension plans for hourly-rate employees and in the GM retirement program for salaried employees.

Evans To Reveal Decision Today
HARRISBURG, July 5 (AP)—Thomas J. Evans, fired as chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, wouldn't commit himself as to whether he'll continue in that post although he showed up for work today.

Gov. Leader dismissed Evans, a Coaldale resident who is Schuylkill County Republican vice chairman, last Saturday to make way for his own appointee, Rep. William F. Green, Philadelphia Democratic chairman.

Drowned Man Was Native Of Monroe

ELMER DeHAVEN II, 33-year-old Bangor man who drowned Monday afternoon in the Delaware River at Sandis Eddy, was a native of Neola, Jackson Township, Monroe County.

He was born July 29, 1921, a son of Mrs. Susan Hoffman DeHaven, of Bangor and the late Elmer W. DeHaven. He was educated in the Brodheadsville and Wind Gap schools and served in the Army in World War Two. He was employed at the Taylor Wharton Iron & Steel Co., Palmer Township, and attended Bushkill Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Joyce A. Kromer; four children: Wilbur, 10; Linda, 8; Larry, 6; and Elmer, 2; his mother and brothers and sisters: Arthur, Wilbur and Walter, of Bangor; Martin and Mrs. Olive Dietrich, of Mt. Bethel; Mrs. Beatrice Manini and Mrs. Mabel Sanders, of Wind Gap; and Mrs. Elsie Reinhardt, of Pen Argil.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p. m. at the Schmidt mortuary, Wind Gap.

Had Gone On Picnic

DeHaven had taken his wife and children to Sandis Eddy for a picnic Monday about noon. DeHaven went swimming in what is regarded as a dangerous section of the river because of its treacherous currents and deep holes. He was reported to be a good swimmer.

His nephew, Donald Reinhardt, 24, of Bangor, had taken DeHaven's daughter, Linda, and two other youngsters for a motorboat ride. Reinhardt heard DeHaven's call for help and rushed to the spot where he saw DeHaven disappear.

He dived into the water, swam beneath the surface and located DeHaven in about six feet of water. Reinhardt struggled to bring the limp form to the surface but failed. His calls for help brought emergency squads.

Grappling crews worked for nearly an hour before they spotted the body. DeHaven's family, meanwhile, did not know of the tragedy until Reinhardt returned to shore.

Harris Mullen Addresses Convocation

HARRIS Mullen, associate pastor of the Easton and Stroudsburg Seventh-day Adventist churches, yesterday addressed the 49th annual state-wide convocation of Seventh-day Adventists gathered at the church's grounds near Allentown.

"The giving of funds will not purchase heaven," he declared to the upwards of 2,000 adherents who are attending the Adventist Congress from all sections of the state and nearby four-state area.

Pastor Mullen challenged the assembly with the responsibility of Christian life as a ministry which goes beyond the giving of funds for missions. His topic "Mission, Commission and Submission" was drawn from the challenge to service laid down by Christ. "The mission is the Master's words 'Go ye therefore'; the commission is 'Teach all nations'; the submission is 'baptizing them in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost'," he stated.

Singing Evangelist

The area clergyman who hails from Los Angeles, Cal., served as singing evangelist in a series of meetings conducted in Easton recently. He is now serving as associate director of youth at the ten-day state wide parley and one of the directors of music in the main assembly.

He is also participating in the daily program which is featuring international, eight-state and local conference church leaders. Highlight of the series is the appearance of pioneer religious network telecasters "Faith for Today" whose religious dramatic program is now being viewed in 123 TV outlets from coast to coast including the U. S. Alhambra in Maine.

Pastor Mullen is scheduled to serve as singing evangelist in a series of meetings slated for Scranton.

The camp meeting sessions are scheduled to continue until Saturday, July 9.

Red China Can Take Five Definite Steps To Prove She's Worthy Of U. N. Membership

By Francis W. Carpenter
For J. M. Roberts,
AP News Analyst

The United States expects the Soviet Union to bring up the issue of Red China at the Geneva Big Four conference. The Chinese case is a cause of world tension, but it seems doubtful if anything will come of the Soviet move at this time.

Some Americans, however, are wondering just what Peiping must do to remove the tag of "aggressor" pinned on it by the United Nations in 1951.

The essence of the problem is for the Communist Chinese to prove they are not a war-minded people.

Can Demonstrate Change

What constitutes proof? Proof of a change of heart might be demonstrated by several acts, such as:

1. Immediate release of the 11 American airmen held as spies.
2. Quick release and repatriation of other American and U. N. prisoners of war known to be in Red Chinese camps.

3. Withdrawal of Red Chinese forces and equipment from North Korea so the Koreans may settle their problems without outside hindrance, in a peaceful manner under U. N. supervision.

4. Care of starving thousands in China instead of putting so much effort and supplies into building and maintaining a huge war machine.

Enormity of Task

5. An ending of subversive and infiltration tactics in Indochina and Southeast Asia.

As far as is known, these ideas are not yet receiving official sanction. They are just points being made to show the enormity of the task of working out any settlement of the Chinese problem. As long as the Peiping regime gives evidence of using force, Americans feel it is not possible to deal with them.

There has been a shift in the tactics of Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai since his bitter attack on the United States and the United Nations for even suggesting Peiping go to the U. N. Security Council for talks on a formal cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

Cease-fire A Must

At the Asian-African conference in Bandung in April, Chou said he was willing to have direct talks with the United States. He has since been supported by the Soviet Union.

But Secretary of State Dulles stands firm on the statement he made April 26 in answer to Chou. Dulles said a formal cease-fire is a prerequisite to anything further in the Far East. He said the United States will "not negotiate with a pistol aimed at its head."

A cease-fire has in fact appeared in the critical area. No one knows when or if Chou will start the Red forces moving again.

Scholarship Program Is Defended

WASHINGTON, July 5 (P)—Two authors of laws under which the United States puts up millions for an international student exchange program said today the State Department should "clear the record" of charges by House members that the program has been "perverted."

Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark) and Mundt (R-SD) said they believe the accusations are based on a misunderstanding. The accusations which Mundt attributed to Rep. Rooney (D-NY) and other House members, figured in the debate as Congress voted last Friday to cut back funds for the program and impose restrictions on their use.

Mundt told the Senate that Rooney had produced "from out of the blue" statistics which seemed to indicate that some of the money intended to bring foreign students to this country to learn about America has been misused. Mundt said the House statistics indicated that foreign students, instead of being brought to this country to study, had been sent to other European centers of learning at U. S. expense.

Mundt said that seemed to be a strange way to teach foreigners about this country, and might justify the House charges that it showed "perversion" of the program.

Fulbright told Mundt that was only part of the study—that the students had been sent to seminars U. S. educators conducted abroad at Salzburg University in Austria, Oxford in England and other centers, as an experiment.

DuPont, G.M., U.S. Steel Top Stock Advance

NEW YORK, July 5 (P)—The stock market went up today with steels and pivots issues strong. Du Pont was up 10 1/2% at 243 1/2. General Motors advanced 3 1/2% at 112 1/2, and U. S. Steel was up 2 1/2% at 56 1/2.

There were many special situations that sent stocks upward, like the steel price boost, but there was a good foundation for market firmness. The commerce department said production and sales this year were pointed toward a record.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.40 at a new record high of $175.00. The industrial component gained $3.10 at a new high of $242.90, due mostly to unusual strength in a handful of stocks used in the average. Railroads were able to post a new gain of 10 cents while utilities edged up 30 cents.

The market broadened out to include 1,234 individual issues, the most in nearly a month. There were 623 gainers and 374 losers with 116 new highs and 9 new lows for the year registered.

Volume amounted to 2,680,000 shares as against 2,540,000 shares Friday when the market was up. U. S. Steel topped the most active list as it did so many times last week, and it was followed by Sperry Rand Corp. up 1/2% at 28 1/2, Merritt Chapman & Scott up 1/2% at 25 1/2, Burlington Industries up 1/2% at 18, and Republic Steel up 1/2% at 47 1/2.

The American Stock Exchange was generally higher on volume of

Police Reserve Busy At Parks

Capt. LeBar and Lt. E. F. Stanton did patrol work, directing parking and traffic within the state parks as well as supplementing park personnel in carrying out park rules and regulations.

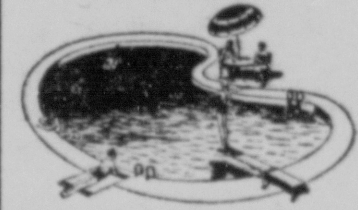

This was one of the first public activities of the organization since its inception and reports indicate that a splendid service was rendered by them, forestry officials said.

890,000 shares as compared with 760,000 shares Friday.

The bond market and U. S. government's over the counter were steady.

304 Persons Receive Free Chest X-Rays On Opening Day

Mobile Unit Stops Today In Boroughs

OPENING day of the chest x-ray program designed primarily for food handlers in stores, hotels, restaurants and tap rooms of Monroe County yesterday processed 304 persons, Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary of Monroe County Tuberculosis Society, said last night.

Today the mobile unit and technicians assigned here by the State Department of Health will x-ray food handlers in the Stroudsburgs—where it is compulsory for all handlers of food or beverages to have a chest x-ray as part of their health examination now due under regulations of both boroughs and the respective health boards.

The x-rays are free in every instance. The program is being conducted by the County TB Society in cooperation with Monroe County Medical Society and the State Health Department.

Hours Announced

Food handlers in Stroudsburg may obtain their free x-ray at Stroudsburg Municipal Building from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. today. East Stroudsburg food handlers will receive free x-rays at the municipal building there from 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

The mobile unit will be at the Tannersville fire house for food handlers in that region from 7 to 9 p. m. today.

Largest group x-rayed yesterday was at the Skytop stop of the mobile unit, technicians and County TB Society staff. There were 189 persons processed there.

At Pocono Pines, where the unit and personnel set up at Pocono Crest, there were 115 x-rayed yesterday afternoon.

On Thursday the unit and staff will be at Buck Hill Falls Inn from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; at Mountainhome Barrett Y branch from 2 to 4 p. m. and at Middle Smithfield school from 7 to 9 p. m.

Tribute Paid To Johnson

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Senators of both parties paid warm and unusual tribute today to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, stricken with a heart attack.

Every member present at the Senate recessed after his holiday recess arose for a moment of silence in prayer for the Democratic floor leader's recovery.

Speaker after speaker expressed grief over Johnson's illness and high praise for his work in the Senate.

Doctors said there was no chance the tall and once tireless Texan would be able to return to his duties in this session of Congress. A late afternoon advisory from Bethesda Naval Medical Center reported Johnson's condition had not changed in the last 24 hours and remained serious.

"He is now taking nourishment and is reasonably comfortable," the bulletin said.

Johnson was taken to Bethesda Saturday night after suffering the attack at the home of a friend in Virginia.

Councilmen Vote Selves Power To Crack Down On Speeders

BANGOR — Borough Council added 12 men to the Bangor police force last night.

It voted to deputize all 12 council members to serve as special policemen in a campaign to crack down on speeding automobiles.

The action was taken on a motion by Alfred Counterman, who proposed that councilmen work without pay and be equipped with badges.

The men will be deputized immediately by John J. Correll, who is acting as burgess during the illness of Hayden Pritchard.

Bids on Fire Truck

In other actions, council received five bids for a new, 75-foot aerial-ladder fire truck. The bids ranged from $30,500 to $36,470. Council will review the bids with fire department officials and report their recommendations at the August meeting of council.

The resignation of Reagle Saltern as a special policeman was accepted, effective Aug. 1. He is moving to Syracuse, N. Y. Applicants for the position will be sought and council will act on the letters next month.

Council decided to delay action on a request from the Chamber of Commerce to acquire properties in the business district between Broadway and Market St. for a municipal parking lot.

Several pieces of land would have to be taken through condemnation proceedings, council reported, and another property is up for sale at a price council feels is exorbitant. The borough has offered to buy the property for $15,000, but the owners are said to be asking more than twice that amount.

90,000 Visit State Parks Over Holiday

USE OF STATE forests and parks in the region over the July Fourth week-end increased at least 50 per cent over the same period last year. An estimated 90,000 people found some relief from heat in these areas, according to E. C. Pyle, district forester.

All areas were swamped far beyond capacity, he said. In fact, in some areas as many cars were turned away as were already parked.

The newly opened Tobyhanna State Park was swamped with over 1000 cars each day. Cars filled the parking lots and each side of the highway for about one mile.

Estimated attendance for three day week-end follows: Big Pocono State Park, 6,000; Tobyhanna State Park, 19,000; Promised Land State Park, 42,000; George W. Childs State Park, 13,600; State Forest and Lakes, 10,000.

Horse Destroyed After Being Struck By Car On Route 611

A CAR HIT a horse on Route 611 at 1:10 a. m. yesterday.

The horse was injured and had to be shot. A woman passenger in the car, who had been asleep on the back seat, was injured and taken to Monroe County General Hospital.

According to Clair Shick, Tannersville police officer, the accident occurred below the Pocono Hotel in Tannersville. Shick said Furman C. Alderman, 31, a serviceman stationed at Fort Dix, N. J., was driving his car south on the highway.

At a point just below the hotel a horse owned by Ada Zugel, the hotel operator, came up over a bank next to the highway, ran in front of the car, Shick said. The horse apparently rolled up over the hood of the car, hit the top and rolled off the back, Shick said.

Alderman's wife, Hilda, 32, was thrown from the back seat to the floor. Her head struck the back of the front seat. She was treated at General Hospital then was taken to Fort Dix Army Hospital yesterday, Shick said.

A veterinarian was called to the scene to examine the horse. He ordered the horse destroyed.

Wealthy Widow Found Slain; Police Believe She Was Victim Of $60,000 Swindle

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 (AP)—Detectives investigating the mysterious death of a 63-year-old wealthy widow in her Center City Hotel apartment said today she apparently had been swindled of $60,000 in the last 18 months.

They said also that $8,000 in cash was missing from the room where Mrs. Lulubel Rossman was found yesterday, bound hand and foot and suffocated by a handkerchief and a string of pearls stuffed in her mouth as a gag.

Mrs. Rossman was described as the sole heir of a $405,000 estate left by her husband, Palen P. Rossman senior partner in a firm of certified public accountants. He died two years ago.

One police investigator said a search of Mrs. Rossman's apartment uncovered "documentary proof that she was swindled in three deals in Miami and two other cities." He reported that one deal was for $30,000, a second for $20,000 and another for $10,000.

Detectives said they had found receipts and letters suggesting that Mrs. Rossman had demanded return of the money, having been convinced that she had been defrauded. The correspondence, authorities said, indicated the $60,000 had been advanced in the belief that it was to be used for religious purposes.

Chief Inspector John J. Kelly disclosed that $8,000 in cash had been taken from the room. He said Mrs. Rossman carried that much money in a white purse and had shown it to several persons in the hotel. The empty pocketbook was found in the room after the slaying came to light.

Despite the missing $8,000 and some evidence that the apartment had been searched, police officials said it was far from clear that robbery alone was the motive for the killing.

Money Untouched

Untouched, they said, was $3,817 more in cash, two $1,000 U. S. savings bonds and considerable jewelry.

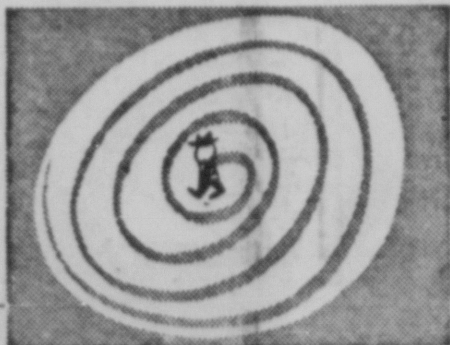

Mrs. Rossman, who had returned recently from a trip to Miami, was last seen alive by a bellhop. Her fully clothed body was found on the bed by a chambermaid. Her wrists were tied with a stocking and a length of plastic cord, her ankles bound by adhesive tape. It was first reported that strangulation caused death, but an autopsy showed suffocation as the cause. A pathologist's statement added that there were bruises high on the chest and along the neckline.

Fire Destroys Small Barn On Dennis Farm

A SMALL BARN on the Norman Dennis property in Poplar Valley was destroyed by fire early last night, but farm animals, including some cows escaped, according to Stroud Township firemen.

Lost in the fire was a tractor and some other farm equipment.

Firemen said the blaze was discovered by someone driving along the Poplar Valley road. The barn is located a considerable distance off the highway and hidden partially by trees.

It is believed the fire had been burning a considerable length of time before it was discovered.

Firemen said the Dennis family was not at home. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Firemen said the structure was "down" when they arrived. They brought only a portion of their booster equipment into play to wet down the remains.

POINT O'WOODS, N. Y., July 5 (AP)—A three-year campaign to save Fire Island's famed "Sunken Forest" has ended successfully.

A fund of $100,000 was raised to buy the 60 acres and prevent them from being broken up by real estate developers.

The forest is described by scientists as a "living museum." It contains rich stands of American holly, primeval oak, tupelo gum, pine, sassafras and cedar.

"Consent Calendars" Of Legislature Easy To Understand, But Not Valuable

It's easy enough to figure out why they call those Wednesday get-togethers of our General Assembly "consent calendar" meetings.

Take last Wednesday.

There was our House of Representatives in session—52 (count 'em) 52 representatives present. Not quite a quorum. Two hundred and ten show up on pay day.

And there was our Senate likewise with 13 (count 'em) 13 senators keeping the store open. On a clear day, you can count up to fifty.

Away out of earshot, there was the Speaker of the House, H. G. (Hi) Andrews, like a stern teacher trying to show his pupils that truancy does not pay. Speaker Andrews hadn't gone back home to Johnstown, just wouldn't budge out of his office, to preside over the House because there was no quorum. Second straight Wednesday he has been trying to shame his colleagues into doing better. Doesn't seem to be working. Maybe, he had better try something else—like threatening to bar the truants from party caucuses.

A quorum? That's when more legislators are present than are absent. It's when enough legislators are around to vote on bills with a legal constitutional majority.

That gets us back to why they call these Wednesday affairs "consent calendars." The "consent" comes from "silence means consent," and most of the legislators are necessarily silent, seeing as they aren't there to speak out or even drop their watch. The "calendar" comes from that old saying, "I keep looking at the calendar, counting the days until I'm back home."

It isn't much of a counting chore. You can keep track on the fingers of one hand and still have a couple of fingers left over. This is because the General Assembly usually meets only on Mondays, Tuesdays, maybe Wednesdays and an occasional Thursday, if the roads get snowed in. That doesn't count weeks like this week when they don't have to meet at all, and it only holds true every other year, giving everybody plenty of time to rest up from the ordeal.

This isn't to say that "consent calendars" aren't necessary. Sometimes they are, like the one this past week. Because the Fourth of July fell on a Monday, all of this week will be loused up, and there can't be any meetings, so no bills could be advanced for debate or vote then. That meant they had to be advanced on last Wednesday, as anyone can see.

One other thing this past Wednesday. Somebody had to stick around and pass a bill making it possible for the State to borrow $60 million to pay its bills until the legislators can get around to okaying a new budget and enacting new taxes. They haven't had time, or something, so far.

The way things are going, there'll be exactly this kind of a situation on the last Wednesday before September. The $60 million all will be gone then, and somebody will have to stick around so the State can borrow some more money. Be the same kind of a loused-up week coming up, too, when nothing can be done. Labor Day also falls on a Monday.

George Sokolsky Says...

Europeans Should Live By Standards Of U. S. When Here, As We Must Over There

If the right to travel is a "natural right," is not the right to migrate an extension of what is "natural?"

The question must also be asked: "What is a natural right? If the Constitution is to be interpreted so broadly that the courts become a legislative chamber, is this not, of itself, a revolutionary doctrine?"

If judges care to go back to the Declaration of Independence for their source, they will find the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and as the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution puts it, "property." But if the judges insist upon pursuit of happiness or liberty to justify their opinion extending the "natural rights" of the individual, by what right is there a prohibition on heroin or marijuana, both of which could be a "pursuit of happiness," temporary though it might be? Or, we might suggest that many forms of taxation are a deprivation of property.

The issue then becomes "due process of law," and the question arises whether each and every administrative function thus becomes subject to judicial review.

Admitting that regulations about passports may be made by the Executive, the final decision remains in the courts. It would be interesting to read an essay by one of these judges on the nature of "natural rights" in our society, whether they relate it to the absolutes of Natural Law or to the adjustments of opinion to the climate of the moment. It might read like something by Bakunin.

Now along comes the Senator from Massachusetts, John F. Kennedy, who was elected from a state with a large foreign population. Senator Kennedy makes the point:

"Italy must secure the emigration of at least 200,000 persons annually in the next ten years if it is to remain a stable, healthy member of the free world."

True, Italy faces an over-population problem. So does Greece. So does Great Britain. So does Red China. So does India. In fact, the Earth is being over-populated and experts on food problems are deeply concerned. Does that mean that under some "natural rights" decision of a court, all the countries that are over-populated may dump their surplus populations upon the United States?

Senator Kennedy says that under the present law only 17,000 Greeks and 60,000 Italians can be admitted into the United States over a three-year period. And being politically-minded, the Senator from Massachusetts makes the point that as millions of Italians are out of work, it gives comfort to the millions of Italians who are out of work to migrate to the United States? Why does he not appeal to Canada which is under-populated to take them in?

On the other hand, if the right to travel is a "natural right," why should we have any immigration restrictions at all? If a man wants to travel to the United States, who, in defiance of "natural rights," may say him nay? If he wants to remain after he has traveled here, who has the authority to over-rule nature by demanding a passport, a visa, fingerprints and a record? Should not "natural rights" be superior to man-made laws? It would seem so, or those who argue "natural rights" in the passport issue are both logically and legally in error, which they well might be and have been before.

A further point might be made in response to a statement that Europeans object to being fingerprinted because in their country only criminals are fingerprinted. It is difficult to follow that argument. In our country, many who are not criminals are fingerprinted. For instance, J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, has been fingerprinted. The Europeans do it one way and we do it another. Is it not a "natural right" for them to do as they choose and for us to do as we choose?

If any one of us desires to travel to Europe, he must live according to the standards of the country he goes to. If anyone wants to come to the United States, he ought to be willing to live according to the standards of this country. Otherwise, each man would do as he pleases, including passing through a red light in pursuit of happiness.

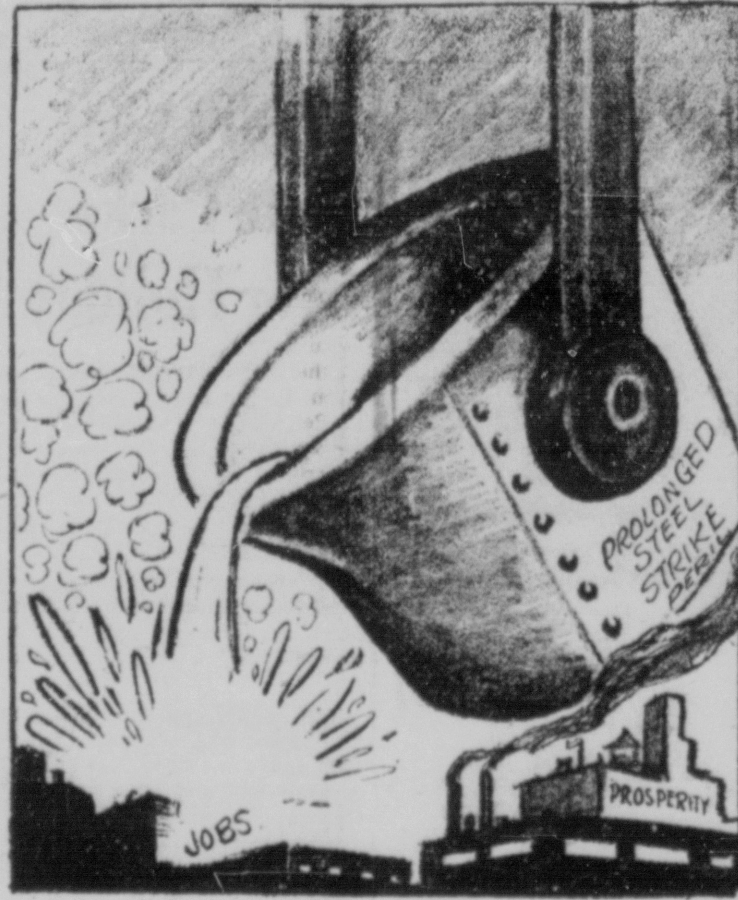

Rhode Island is first among states in density of population. It has 652 persons per square mile, while Nevada is the most sparsely populated, with only 1.4 persons per square mile.

The Scriptures have been translated into 1,084 languages.

find it was a prelude to a plug for beer, and from here in it will be hard for us to listen to "When You Were Sweet Sixteen." "School days," or "Rock-a-Bye Baby" without suspecting it is all linked up with a brewery promotion. Congress is to investigate boxing. We trust it is getting into condition through plenty of rope skipping. Jim Farley says our best ambassadors are our trade slogans, and that they crash even on curtains. Perhaps what the world needs more than anything else, as Jim hints, is "the pause that refreshes." We think there is much in what he says. The Victor phonograph dog is known all over the world better than Foster Dulles, the Texaco flying horse does well despite a lack of striped pants and maybe in Asia and Europe "the liveliest taste in town" can ring a bell which diplomats can't. Several coups traveled from New York to Atlantic on water skis. That's what we call a real determination to keep out of city traffic. The U. S. Public Health Service says 1,500,000 quit cigarettes in the last 18 months. The ash trays don't show it, but there are still 38,000,000 cigarette smokers, however, and at times it seems that at least 37,500,000 are on TV delivering plugs for various brands. We hear that "Medic" may perform a TV operation, taking Jack Fleck, the golf sensation, apart to see what he has that Hogan lacks.

Our Diplomacy Needs Good Hot-Foot Artist

Notwithstanding Old Molotov's recent brave undertaking of the role of Good-Time Charlie, and despite all the other unfamiliar gestures of amiability from the Kremlin in late, nobody seems to have been honeyed into thinking of the forthcoming rendezvous "at the summit" as Old Home Week.

This is to the good. In the last 10 years we have dug ourselves into quite enough holes with the fatuous illusion that maybe we had misjudged the Russian highlanders and that they might be all right if we got to know them better.

We know them well enough by this time, surely, to take seriously the reminder by Perry Lauckhuff, in Harper's magazine, that Communists are different from other people.

"They regard the dogmas of Marx and Lenin as the root of all common sense," said Lauckhuff, from a background of 16 years' experience in the U. S. foreign service. "They are devoid of pity, do not understand what is meant by 'fair play,' and would regard it as a contemptible weakness if they did. They despise us precisely for what they regard as our grasping business habits. They disbelieve our promises, because they have long been trained to regard their own promises merely as traps."

Fortunately the spokesmen for our side appear to have these characteristics well in mind as they prepare to climb the mountain. They won't knowingly let anybody sneak behind them when they stand at the summit.

But as long as they're making the trip it would be nice if they could look forward to coming back with more than just the satisfaction of knowing that nobody pushed them over the edge. This man Lauckhuff suggests one possible way of outpointing the Russians. Their most sensitive spot, he said, can be touched by spontaneous ridicule.

But if the Western teams booked for Geneva include any skillful specialist in catch-as-catch-can ridicule, he has yet to win a reputation. We have our Dulles' and Edens and plenty of bench-strength of the Stassen variety, but no freehand masters of the stinging quip or the rocking retort. Not even a hotfoot artist or a banana-peel virtuoso.

And that, it strikes me, is a symptom of what ails diplomacy in these troubled times. All the diplomats take themselves too seriously.

They are so over-awed by the admitted gravity of The Situation that they have no eye for its ludicrous aspects—of which it has plenty. It was no frivolous impulse that led the monarchs of the past to buttress themselves with court jesters. Those canny buffoons pulled more than one choice bit of fat out of the fire.

Probably it would be too much to expect that a Will Rogers at Geneva could get under the Russians' hide—even if we had one. But he could do a lot to keep our own people from tightening up.

Russel Crouse, inclined to mislay things himself, can never get over the punctilious, attentive-to-every-detail behavior of his partner and crony, Howard Lindsay. "He even answers every letter the day he gets it," marvels Crouse in mock despair. ## Accusing White Paper Will Be Tossed At Soviet Pleas

Washington, July 6—President Eisenhower has the answer ready and waiting for Russia's expected clamor, at the "summit" conference, that the U. S. negotiate directly with Red China on its demands in the Formosa crisis.

The President's reply is a voluminous "White Paper" accusing Peiping of more than 75 deliberate and sinister violations of the Korean truce agreement.

The U. S. is willing to discuss a Formosa cease-fire. But before that is done, the Communist masters of China must give clearcut evidence in the form of actual deeds that they will fulfill the commitments they make.

The Reds have glaringly not done that in Korea, as the "White Paper" will prove in explicit and devastating detail.

The extensively documented publication has been in preparation by the State Department for many months. It will be issued before the "summit" opens in Geneva on the 18th, as resounding refutation of Red propaganda and maneuvers portraying themselves as sincere advocates of peace and disarmament.

The "White Paper" will cite scores of concrete instances of flagrant and warlike breaches of the Korean armistice by the Communists.

Following are highlights of this ominous record:

Flat refusal to report, to either the Military Armistice Commission or the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission, the rotation in North Korea of an estimated 250,000 Chinese troops.

Illegally bringing in there than 400 tanks and other armored vehicles, thousands of automatic weapons and other arms, and large quantities of ammunition.

Building up a banned air strength of around 600 combat planes, at least a third of them Russian-made jets, plus numerous bases and depots of various kinds.

Forcibly impressing South Korean prisoners of war and civilians into the Communist army.

In direct disregard of cease-fire terms, refusing to allow thousands of civilians to return to their homes in South Korea; also in not "publicizing widely" that these people can do that, under Paragraph 58 of the armistice agreement. The U. S. has strictly adhered to this requirement and hundreds of North Koreans have returned, but the Reds have not allowed any South Koreans to do that.

The blistering State Department document will also charge that the Communists have refused to account for 2,840 UN prisoners of war, most of them ROKs, who were known to be in their hands.

A particularly seething portion of the "White Paper" will be the detailed account of how the Reds have blocked and frustrated the two international commissions set up under the truce to enforce it. Neither has ever been able to function, due to deliberate and persistent Communist obstruction.

Note: Russia sold more gold abroad last month than in any similar period on record. Total gold shipments to the West were around $125,000,000; for all of 1954 they were about $130,000,000. Of last month's record gold exports, Britain got $45,000,000 and an equal amount was bought by Swiss bankers. Virtually all the Red gold was in payment for purchases of food and consumer goods.

Big mystery—That $64 question about which the Kremlin czars will take part in the "summit" conference is not limited to the Big Three.

The West German government also has no clue as to who is the top Red.

That world-publicized invitation which Chancellor Adenauer got to visit Moscow was unsigned. Assistant Secretary of State Livingston Merchant revealed this curious fact during a private talk with House Foreign Affairs Committee members. He told Representative James Richards (D, S. C.), chairman:

"The invitation to Chancellor Adenauer was issued in the third person, from the Soviet embassy in Paris to the German embassy in Paris, and was not signed."

Predator Bounties Payments

—by H. G. Heller

In the Game Commission's fiscal year ending May 31, 1955 predator bounties paid from the Game Fund aggregated $115,707. Gray foxes on which such rewards were granted totaled 11,720, red foxes 15,609, and great horned owls 1,233. In the total sum are $226 paid for 226 weasels killed prior to June 1, 1954, and properly submitted within the required four months after the date of killing. The bounty on weasels was discontinued on that date. In the previous fiscal year 14,730 gray foxes, 16,266 red foxes and 1237 great horned owls, killed in Pennsylvania, were bountied.

In the 12-month period ending last May 31, Tioga Countians received $5,011 in bounties, the highest amount going to any county. Next came York County, with $4,399 paid claimants. Persons in the following counties received, all told, between $3,000 and $4,000 in the period named: Crawford, Erie, Bedford, Potter, Centre, Bradford, and Lancaster. Fifteen counties were in the bracket $2,000 to $3,000, and 25 counties received over $1,000 in that time.

Marsh Dams

The Game Commission's small marsh program, inaugurated in March of 1953, was devised principally to provide water and marsh areas suitable for wild waterfowl. A June report reveals that of numerous sites surveyed as possible impoundment areas some were eliminated because construction was not feasible or would be too costly.

However, 9 sites were selected. Four were on State Game Lands No. 28, Elk County, and 5 on adjoining Allegheny National Forest lands. Construction started in May, 1954. The 4 impoundments on State Game Lands and one on the National Forest were completed last year. This year work was started in May. Plans call for the completion of the four remaining dams, plus three others at least in the same vicinity in 1955. Further surveys are being made to locate desirable sites in other sections of the state, especially in the northern part.

The completed projects above-described are in addition to the 530-acre lake created last summer in the Conneaut Marsh, on State Game Lands No. 213, in Crawford County. This impoundment was the result of excellent cooperation from the Department of Highways.

Businessmen Play Key Role In Nation's Economic Setup

"Maintaining Economic Health in a Free Society" was the subject of an address by Wesley F. Reine, executive director, Committee for Economic Development, at the Ina, Buck Hill Falls, this week. Mr. Reine spoke before the Foxhove Association. The address is being published by The Daily Record in five parts, the first of which appears today.

ON THE FOURTH of July it is appropriate to remind ourselves that America is a land of promise, fulfillment and challenge. The promise and the fulfillment have included not only freedom and justice—the highest values of our national life—but also material well-being on a scale unprecedented in history.

The challenge arises in the very midst of these achievements—to continue efforts for higher standards of living, to seek solutions for such persistent problems as those of poverty and human maladjustment, to foster cultural and educational advancement, to preserve and enhance freedom and justice.

In focusing on the goal of economic health on this occasion it is not meant to imply that this should be our sole or even dominant concern. It is, however, an integral part of the American challenge in mid-1955, and worthy of our best thought and action. The way we meet this obligation will have a good deal to do with the accomplishment of other national goals.

Businessmen In Key Role

That American businessmen have a special responsibility in this connection is very clear. In a free economy the private businessman is at the center of the stage. His decisions in large part the economic history of our country; indeed, they have important implications outside of our country.

It used to be that a businessman saw his duty, first and last, as maximizing his profit. Today the business executive still recognizes the need to operate at a profit, but he is aware of and sensitive to many other responsibilities.

In his own business operations he is responsible for the safe and healthy working conditions of his workers. He is responsible for seeing to it that his company is a good corporate citizen and neighbor in the communities in which he operates. He is expected to follow fair business practices with his customers and suppliers and to bargain in good faith with his labor representatives. These responsibilities are everywhere taken so much for granted that they have become normal business practice.

New Responsibilities

But new, more exacting responsibilities for businessmen lie outside the walls of their plants or the confines of this industry. Today the alert businessman seeks constantly to improve his performance through greater productivity, new products and expanded production, not just to maximize his profit, but to have from these improvements more to share with his customers and employees. Businessmen realize more fully the obligation to operate their businesses in such a way as to contribute to the stability of the national economy, not to a cycle of boom and bust.

And finally business executives are called upon to take a leading part in the formulation of national economic policies. They find themselves called upon to bring their unique familiarity with the workings of a free economy to bear on the formulation of national policies which affect not just business, but every activity in the nation.

It was the recognition of these new responsibilities which led to the creation of the Committee for Economic Development. CED was formed in 1942 through the merging of two streams of business and economic thought, both having had their rise in the concern of businessmen for a healthy postwar economy, a concern which was heightened by the memories of the big depression.

Steps Taken

One stream developed around the idea advanced by Paul G. Hoffman, who later became the first chairman of CED, and other leaders in business and education that, "we should enlist the services of the best brains from our universities and from business and put them to work in solving the problems of how high productive employment can be attained and maintained in a free society." The second stream grew out of the work of the Business Advisory Council's Committee on Economic Policy, of which Marion B. Folsom, now Under Secretary of the Treasury, was chairman.

This group was giving much thought to the possibilities of business expansion following the war, and the need to find jobs for young people returning from service in the armed forces. After careful deliberation it was decided to establish the Committee for Economic Development as a new private organization made up primarily of businessmen, but including some educators, which would conduct economic research and formulate policies for constructive action.

The Research and Policy Committee was established and given the following mandate as stated in the CED By-laws:

Objective Research

"It shall be the responsibility of the Research and Policy Committee to initiate studies into the principles of business policy and of public policy which will foster the full contribution by industry and commerce to the attainment and maintenance of high and secure standards of living for people in all walks of life through maximum employment and high productivity in the domestic economy. All research is to be thoroughly objective in character and the approach in each instance is to be from the standpoint of the general welfare and not from that of any special political or economic group."

The standards set forth or implied are obviously high and exacting. To quote Mr. Hoffman again, "I think it is very important that we as a group think of ourselves not as 'right', 'left', 'conservative' or 'radical', but as responsible. What we are trying to do is to get at the facts about the way this economy functions, to face the facts and then go down the roads indicated."

This formula of responsible thinking and action, simple as it may sound, is nevertheless as comprehensive as it is difficult of attainment.

Difficult Challenge

"To get at the facts" calls for intensive analysis and evaluation, and very often the painful discipline of modification of views. To "go down the roads indicated" entails going beyond the stage of factfinding into the realm of forming judgments and taking action.

Discharging these new responsibilities is certainly one of the most difficult challenges the American businessman has ever faced. The new decisions he is required to make are more complicated than any he is likely to have encountered even in the largest of industrial enterprises. Before he can lead, he faces a formidable task of self-education.

Fortunately, science is able to give him an indispensable helping hand—the technique of collecting and analyzing facts known as research. Research is the indispensable tool for solving problems in this day and age whether they be problems of the natural sciences or problems of the social sciences. And nowhere is this better recognized than in business itself.

West Trade With Reds Due To Fall

By John Seali

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Referring Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen reported yesterday Western countries stepped up nonstrategic trade with Communist countries by 24 per cent during the past year.

But, Stassen said "prospects are not bright" for another general increase in 1955 and it is possible that over-all level may even decline this year.

Stassen made this forecast in the report to Congress reviewing the West's program of trade controls during the last six months of 1954.

Western trade with Communist China in 1954, he said, fell off somewhat, even though Japan showed "a marked increase" in commerce with the Red mainland.

Jap Exports

Japan accounted for 19 million dollars of the Western trade shipments to the Red Chinese out of a total of some 285 million dollars worth of nonmilitary goods, mostly fertilizers, textiles and medicines.

Robackers Take Part In Festival

DR. AND MRS. Earl F. Robacker, of Shawnee-on-Delaware and White Plains, N. Y., have returned to their summer home on the River Road after participating in the seminar program at the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival in Ritztown.

Both were in charge of panel discussion groups. Dr. Robacker conducted a session on Pennsylvania Dutch antiques, with Edgar Sittig of Shawnee-on-Delaware as guest consultant.

Mrs. Robacker led a session on symbolism in Pennsylvania Dutch folk art, calling attention to the historical and religious significance of such well-known motifs as the tulip, the heart, and the bird. In addition, both Dr. and Mrs. Robacker, writers and lecturers in the Pennsylvania Dutch field, spoke at other sessions of the four-day program, which ended Monday night.

Breaks Record

The festival and the seminar program are sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dutch Folklore Society, which has headquarters at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster. The official publication of the society is The Dutchman, of which Dr. Robacker is antiques editor.

The festival, which broke last year's record attendance of more than 50,000, reconstructed such popular phases of country life a century and more ago as apple-butter making, cheese making, quilting, smithing, and various handicrafts.

Seminar sessions, for persons engaged in a serious study of folk ways, included early literature, art, religion, folk beliefs and superstitions, medicine, and the Pennsylvania Dutch dialect itself.

Because of a serious agricultural crisis, Russia increased purchases by 7 per cent during the past year, mainly by stepping up buying of meat and other foodstuffs. It cut down on imports of consumer goods.

Stassen said the extra meat "went on the table of the privileged few" in the Communist bloc.

"The Soviet consumer is just pretty much where he was before—with lots of propaganda and not very much to eat or wear," he reported.

In noting obstacles to increasing East-West trade, Stassen cited "the poor quality" of many Soviet-made products, as well as Russia's "inability to act as a reliable supplier," especially of farm and forest products, usually Russia's main export.

Extra energy on the road, where it counts!

Other gasolines get their high laboratory octane ratings by adding lead! But lead can leave harmful deposits that keep valuable octane from working. Then some of the power fails to reach the road.

And usable road octane is the only octane that matters—it's the only practical way to determine the value of the octane in the gas you buy.

Only the new, unleaded Amoco-Gas

Today, from the world's largest, most advanced petroleum Ultraformer, comes the new high-octane Amoco-Gas—the one gas that needs no lead! Every ounce of octane-energy in the new Amoco-Gas is usable octane in your car. No lead deposits can form on engine parts. No octane is wasted fighting them.

Result? More octane is put to work turning the wheels than for any leaded gas you can buy. That's what we call the big Amoco-Gas Octane Bonus.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Let's grit our teeth and not talk about the weather—though nobody could seem to think of anything else to talk about yesterday. It conditioned all our actions—even to the food we served for supper, the pace at which we moved about our tasks and the mood in which we met our neighbors.

On Main Street the heat pressed down like a weight on your head, the far was sticky under your feet and the heat radiated from the buildings like an oven. Everybody was looking for a sidewalk thermometer so they could tell just how hot they really were.

There were debates on whether it was better to stay in the heat until you got used to it or to duck into an air conditioned building at least long enough to get cooled down a little.

Tonight the Women of the Moose are having installation with everybody involved supposed to wear white dresses. White is cooler than anything, that is if it's sleeveless enough. However if their best white dress is one with long sleeves and a high neck, I'd advise them to wear white bathing dresses instead.

I'll bet the folks at St. John's in Bartonsville were glad they'd done the mowing and clean up of the church and parish house grounds last week, instead of this.

However, the meetings are starting again, and the hardy souls will be there, weather or no. Maybe we could take our own thermometers with us and compare notes.

Dolls Have Day In Capital As Good Will Envoys

By Jane Eads

Washington—Dolls had their day in the capital when in two different shindigs the spotlight was focused on them as potential envoys of goodwill and happiness to children in far-away lands.

At the embassy of Egypt, the United Churchwomen of Washington had their 10th annual doll adoption tea, with Mrs. Ahmed Hussein, wife of the ambassador, greeting the guests who contributed and dressed some 400 dolls to be shipped to 200 rural health centers in Egypt. There they will be used to help instruct children in personal hygiene. Attracting the most attention was the Mamie doll contributed by the First Lady.

In another affair, pretty Pat Nixon, wife of the vice president, at her home here launched the country's young girls on a nationwide Christmas doll contest for the Save the Children Federation.

Girls throughout America turn white socks and plastic doll faces into dolls to be distributed to needy children in the rural United States, France, Finland, Greece, Italy, Western Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, Israel, Lebanon and Korea.

Last year, 50,000 girls made some 25,000 dolls. This year's goal is 75,000. The competition carries the endorsement of the U. S. Committee for UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund).

The girls obtain a doll-making kit from one of the department stores that sponsor the project in their cities. They can dress it in any one of three categories, baby, fashion, or character doll. Last year's winner picked by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, singer Marjorie Anderson, and actress Deborah Kerr, was a baby doll in christening dress made by Joan Shelton, 14, of Kirkwood, Mo. She won a 12,000-mile European trip.

A similar trip is being planned for this year's winner. Regional judging will be in September, the national judging in October.

Mrs. Nixon launched the 1955 event by accepting the first contest doll kit.

FAMILY PLAN
Whether you are moving or remodeling, each member of your family should contribute suggestions about color and new purchases. Big families thrive in little ranch houses because they furnish with multipurpose furniture. Family-sized tables stand on slender legs, formal suites have been replaced by co-ordinates, and there is an abundant crop of furniture to fit your family in scale, mood and price.

We invite you to bring the family with you when you are ready to select Venetian blinds. We will talk over style and color preferences and arrive at a harmony the whole family will enjoy. We are anxious to have you inspect our full line of Tension screens and porch blinds as well as our regular Venetians. Monroe County General Flooring Co., 914 No. 9th Street, Stroudsburg, Tel. 508-J.

Wanna rob the cookie jar without broiling over the baking? Then try our delicious better-than-home-made old fashioned sugar cookies by Charlotte Charles of Boston. Nutmeg and vanilla flavors are available in pretty tins priced at 1.59, also in our candy department.

The Badlands National Monument in South Dakota contains 120,000 acres of fantastically

Davy Crockett dolls have now arrived at Wyckoff's, and we saw a number of little girls standing at goggle-eyed attention, watching Mr. Wyckoff carry an armful from the receiving room to the selling floor. Each doll has a Davy Crockett wardrobe, rivaling that of many a juvenile pioneer fan, and we bet that the boys will have as much fun with those dolls as will their sisters. It'll be fun to see who pesters mother the most for them—the Jims or the Jills.

Dolls are definitely having their day right now at Wyckoff's, with the American Character dolls holding a prominent place in our center aisle as the store begins its annual Lay Away plan for Christmas. Every little girl looks adoringly at the Sweet Sue doll that stands taller than most three year olds, and is a gem of artistic creation. But the one I'd be most happy to cuddle is the tiny baby with crocheted booties, outing flannel diapers, lace-edged slip, and a christening gown and bonnet of crisp, fluffy organdy. Ten per cent down payment will hold these charming toys until Christmas... and even the 39.95 Sweet Sue isn't formidably priced when you think of the length of time one has to pay between now and then.

We're sorry not more children were listening to the radio program yesterday morning when we offered one of these infant dolls to the first child calling in who knew the magic word given them by Pinky Lee on his nightly television program. The surprise was on me, however, when my own daughter, Maura, was the first to telephone. As a matter of fact, I didn't know she was still a Pinky Lee fan... and I had no idea she was listening to the Shopper broadcast. She was one heartbroken little lady when I broke the news that being mother's daughter, she just couldn't win the doll. Now she's demanding that I buy her one... and I'm not sure that her demand isn't legitimate!

Minutaires can add up to a lot of fun. If you don't believe me, why not use them as favors at your next party... or why not fasten them into the bows of your gift wrappings? Our Candy Department is stocking them now, and you'll find an infinite variety to match almost any personality. At ten cents there are packages for the housewife—or the soon-to-be-bride. These contain tiny cook books, sieves, frying pans and rolling pins (an item that should naturally go with every trousseau). Then at 50c, you'll find plastic boxes containing tiny books on how to raise dogs, or fish, or keep house, or apply makeup—and the tiny gadgets that complete each one are adorable. You can tease a poor golfer with a miniature loving cup, some golf balls, etc., and you can add many a laugh to the party table and break a lot of ice easily.

In this torrid month, however, we've another suggestion. If there's any ice at your parties, don't break it... let the guests sit on it!

Wanna rob the cookie jar without broiling over the baking? Then try our delicious better-than-home-made old fashioned sugar cookies by Charlotte Charles of Boston. Nutmeg and vanilla flavors are available in pretty tins priced at 1.59, also in our candy department.

Gary "Jeep" Peckman, who played football, baseball and basketball for East Stroudsburg High, is now making a name for himself as a boxer aboard the USS Iowa. Peckman, who has dropped from 154 to 141 pounds after a lengthy training session, won his initial fight by a unanimous decision, after flooring his opponent for counts of nine and four during the course of the bout. Three more victories will enable Peckman to fight for the 140-pound crown aboard the Iowa.

Curt Hickman, left handed chucker who will have to carry the load for the East Stroudsburg High baseball team next season, suffered a fractured knee last Thursday night and will miss the remainder of the Pocono Mountains League diamond campaign. Hickman slipped and fell on his back porch shortly after returning from a trip to Brooklyn to see the Dodgers and Giants in action. The injury to Curt leaves Bushkill with only one hurler—brother Dick.

"Pee Wee" Reese, outstanding shortstop for the Dodgers credits the vastly improved pitching and the work of Roy Campanella, before the catcher's recent injury, for Brooklyn's position far out in front of the pack in the National League at the present time. Reese made this statement in a brief chat with this reporter last Thursday. John Munier, Jr. of the Red Sox in this area, is flying almost as high as his heroes at this point in the schedule.

Little League teams preparing to take part in the state-wide playoffs this year must have their all-star selections into Little League headquarters, Williamsport, by Friday, July 15. The list will include 14 players and two managers. Dr. Evan C. Reese, president of the East Stroudsburg Little League, announced that his circuit would make its all-star selections public on the 14th. Drawings for pairings in the playoffs will be made at a later date.

A host of baseball fans from various sections of Monroe County are expected to be in the audience at Gordon Giffels Field today when the Strouds play an exhibition baseball contest with Dunmore, a power in the Anthracite League. Billy Long, Dunmore manager, is one of the all-time greats as far as the now defunct Stroudsburg Poconos are concerned and he has a host of friends in this area. Long and Frank Radler, manager of the Strouds, were teammates in Stroudsburg's last years as a member of the class "D" North Atlantic League.

East Stroudsburg High's baseball team watched Stan Landes, a graduate of the North Atlantic League, umpire last Thursday's game between the Giants and Dodgers from behind the plate. The last time we saw Landes in Stroudsburg he was roundly booed and such was the case last Thursday, as both the Giants and Dodgers disputed several plays and fans echoed their disbelief on several occasions. But the husky ump, who has gained many pounds since working his last game in Stroudsburg, stuck by his guns and demonstrated that he is a major league arbitrator.

The standings in the State Belt Babe Ruth League at the present time are Bangor Yanks, 12-0; Bangor Browns, 8-2; West Bangor, 5-7; Pen Argyl A's, 3-7; Pen Argyl Green Sox, 3-8; and Roseto, 2-9. The Bangor Little League stands are Second Ward, 9-0; First Ward, 6-2; Kiwanis-Exchange, 5-3; Elks, 2-7; Kirk Shaw, president of the Varsity "E" Club, dropped a card to this reporter from Miami Beach, where he and Mrs. Shaw are currently vacationing.

Tom Lukish, reported to be headed toward the U. S. Naval Academy in this column last winter, was officially appointed to that school recently and began studies yesterday. Lukish was a star football, basketball and baseball performer at Whitehead High, a member of the Lehigh Valley League. Tom was particularly outstanding in basketball. Walt Bjorn, one of the big names in East Stroudsburg State Teachers College basketball last winter, is working on Long Island this summer.

Bob Bonser, pitcher for the pace setting Saylorsburg Lakers, is drawing praise from every corner of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League this summer. The hard working right hander has a personal record of seven wins and no defeats, while his team has won 11 of 12 outings to date. Bill Pechatka, Tannersville, has a pitching total of five wins at this point in the campaign. Pechatka is also a right hander.

Whitehead Named Head Grid Coach At Stroudsburg

New Salary Figures Set For Mentors

JOHN WHITEHEAD, one of the greatest football stars in East Stroudsburg State Teachers College history, last night was named head football coach at Stroudsburg High School, succeeding Jerry Stulgaitis, who voluntarily stepped down to handle the Stroudsburg High program.

Whitehead was the unanimous choice of the Stroud Union School Board for the head football position. The agreement was reached last night at a regular meeting of the board at Stroudsburg High School.

The new coach was recommended to the board by Earl F. Groner, superintendent of Stroudsburg schools, and the board's athletic committee, consisting of Sam Everitt, chairman; Dr. John Lim and Warren "Mag" Loney.

Stulgaitis submitted a written resignation, in which he asked that Whitehead be considered as his successor and that he be given the junior high school position.

Everitt moved that Stulgaitis' resignation be accepted and that Whitehead be named head coach. The board set Whitehead's salary at $500 for next season, while his assistants, which include Stulgaitis, George Metropoulos and Charley Winters will receive $250 apiece.

Whitehead will be remembered as regular center for the ESSTC grid machine for four years immediately after the war. Whitehead, in addition to playing both offensively and defensively for the Warriors, also kicked extra points.

The new head coach served as an assistant under Stulgaitis last year after four years as line mentor at the Scotland School for Orphans of Veterans, prior to assuming the Stroudsburg position last September.

Whitehead made a deep impression in his only season as line coach at Stroudsburg High.

Contacted at his home last night, Whitehead said, "This is the biggest challenge of my life and I am anxious to get underway with the new job."

"I realize that I'm attempting to fill the shoes of a good man in Jerry, and I will do all in my power to be a worthy successor," the husky voiced coach concluded.

Football practice, according to Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association rulings, will begin on Monday, August 18.

Whitehead was also an outstanding catcher on the ESSTC baseball team and is currently catching for the Strouds, now holding down first place in the Bi-State League.

Stulgaitis stepped down from the head football job at the W. Main St. school, after 10 years at the helm, to devote his time to developing young players in the newly developed junior high school setup.

The veteran coach turned out several outstanding grid machines during his tour of duty, missing the championship of the Lehigh Valley League in 1953 in the final game of the season. Stulgaitis won the first seven contests in the leagues with East Stroudsburg, but lost the last three.

John Kupiec was named basketball coach for a third year and his salary was set at $500. Winters and Whitehead were retained as assistant cage mentors at $250. Stulgaitis was retained as head baseball coach at a salary of $300. Metropoulos will again serve as assistant at $100.

Worthington Falls Before Barrett, 14-8

CANADENSIS—Barrett continued its climb in the Stroudsburg-Barrett Babe Ruth Baseball League yesterday by gaining a 14-8 verdict over Worthington Mower, here on the Barrett High School field.

Radler To Oppose Long As Strouds Play Host To Dunmore In Exhibition At Giffels Field

BI-STATE LEAGUE will match its power against one of the strangest teams in the famed Anthracite League, of Scranton, when the Strouds and Dunmore tangle in an exhibition game at Gordon Giffels Field today at 6:15 p. m.

The contest will also bring Frank Radler and Billy Long face to face as managers of the respective opponents.

Radler, who pilots the Strouds, was manager of the now defunct Stroudsburg Poconos for three seasons prior to the collapse of the class "D" North Atlantic League.

Long was second baseman and field captain for the Poconos in 1946 and 1950 and is considered one of the most popular players to ever campaign with the Poconos. Billy is now pilot of the strong Dunmore team.

Radler is expected to name either Bill "Bump" Metzgar, a southpaw, or Bill Sommers, strong armed right hander, to do the pitching against the invader from Dunmore.

Metzgar's Homer Helps IBW To Win Over Line Material

DALE METZGAR's home run helped to power International Boiler Works to a 5-4 victory over Line Material at Gordon Giffels Field last night, in a Stroudsburg-Barrett Babe Ruth League baseball clash.

Metzgar's four-bagger, lashed into deepest center field, tied the score in the bottom of the seventh and final inning.

Tobyhanna Decisions Barrett Rotary

TOBYHANNA — Calvin Davis pitched and batted Tobyhanna to a 10-9 decision over Barrett in a Pocono Little League baseball game played here on the Coolbaugh High School field last night.

The host club missed scoring in only the first inning as it scored five times in the second and then tapered off with two in the third, two in the fourth and one tally in the fifth.

Big Blow

Davis was touched for 10 hits by Barrett, but he was tough in the clutch and his home run helped to turn the tide of battle.

Managers Fight As Redlegs Win

CINCINNATI, July 5 (AP)—Manager "Birdie" Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs and Harry "The Hat" Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals battled with their fists tonight in the ninth inning as the Reds rallied with four hits and two runs to beat the Cards 5-4.

Players from both squads mixed it up on the field after the Tebbetts-Walker battle. Both were ejected from the game along with St. Louis catcher Bill Sarni.

Almost Flawless Production Opens At Pocono Playhouse Of William Inges 'Picnic'

By Leonard Randolph

MOUNTAINHOME — On extremely rare occasions there occurs in the theater a play, a production or a piece of acting which adds beauty to the whole idea of theater by its very nature. Even more is the magical night when all the elements of a production—the acting, direction, scenic design, lighting and a play of great beauty—combine to give us not only a touching work of art but, beyond this, a real and honest human experience.

This was the case with "Picnic" in its opening performance Monday night at Pocono Playhouse. As a literary contribution to the theater this play by William Inge is one of the finest we have had in modern times. At the Playhouse it is being given a stunning production which is nearly flawless in every respect.

John O'Shaughnessy has directed the play with sensitive understanding for its people. In O'Shaughnessy's hands "Picnic" has been made into a part of our world. The men and women who inhabit the stage are so honestly real and convincing that, at the end of the evening, they are carried with us from the theater in mental images as strong as life itself.

Beyond Reality

But O'Shaughnessy, the actors in the play and Inge, as author, have something in mind beyond the pure realism and impact of a fragment of common existence. Inge has created a group of characters who might live in any small town. They are comic creations much of the time. Yet there is always in each humorous occurrence the thread of pathos which characterizes all great comedy.

"Picnic" is not, in the strict sense, a "plotted" play. Inge has opened a gate into the backyard shared by two older women. He has shown us a group of persons in full dimension. Before we realize what is happening the full laughter of a row of genuinely funny scenes has brought us into intimate contact with a moment of decision.

This is a great play for actors because it does not center its fire and beauty in one role. Each person in "Picnic" is as important as the actor and his director make him.

An Image of Love

More than anything else, in this play Inge has created a masterpiece of human emotion and yearning.

ing set against the casually predatory restrictions of a small community. Each person in "Picnic" is caught, in a sense, by his environment—the mother, Flo Owens, by the shadow of her own captivity in love and her fear of insecurity; the daughter, Madge, by her own beauty and a realization that there is something dormant within her which needs the nudge of animal excitement; the "old maid" school-teacher, Rosemary, by her near-consciousness for fulfillment; the "bum", Hal Carter, by his own muscular instincts and the depressing inadequacy of a life he did not make but is too weak to change; the next-door neighbor, Helen Potts, who has carried with her from the one night of a mother-frustrated, unconsummated marriage, an image of love.

The performances in the present Playhouse production are very nearly beyond reproach in all respects. Sandra Church, whose red-headed, almost-awakened beauty is ideal for "Madge", was wonderfully moving opening night; Nancy Sheridan is completely right for "Flo"; Molly McCarty's portrait of "Millie" could not have been better or more fitting.

Perfect Casting

All the other roles have been cast perfectly. The actors, without exception, have responded to brilliant direction with thoughtful, beautiful performances.

Playing the parts are Mary Jackson, whose frustrated, desperate teacher has just the right blend of pathos and comedy; John MacKay, a totally believable "Alen Seymour"; Louis Edmonds, as "Hal"; Arthur Anderson, a marvelously fumbling, realistic small-town businessman who is never a caricature; Marjorie Eaton, as "Mrs. Potts"; Adria Rice and Kip McArdle as Rosemary's two glib teacher friends and Del Temney who, as usual, is excellent in a small, purpose-laden part.

The play's intense effect has been increased by a solid, colorful set designed by Ballou and some extraordinary lighting effects by Lewis Lehman. There is one incidental piece of lighting which I found quietly powerful opening night—a gradual sunrise at the beginning of scene two, act three, which is a triumph of lighting skill. It sets a slow, tremulous pace for the final scene and there is in its eerie half-lighting an element of suspense which fits into the pattern of the play with indelible correctness.

The Unpulled Punch

In writing "Picnic", William Inge has dealt in realistic terms with people as they exist, full-scale and human in life. To do so he has sparked his dialogue with the blunt poetry of sex and its images. The symbols in the play are part of the force which creates and encourages life and its eternal revitalization.

Whether he knows it or not, Inge owes O'Shaughnessy, Rowena Stevens and the Playhouse a debt of gratitude this week. They have made his play a living, forceful tribute to the man who wrote it. At no other time—and this includes the New York production of the play—has it been so apparent that "Picnic" deserves the prizes and the honors it has won.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

(No Center Posts!)

188-hp Buick SPECIAL 6-Door RIVIERA, Model 43

This 4-Door Beauty is the Newest Hit in Hardtops

You certainly ought to come see why this new kind of hardtop is headed for the best-seller list.

It's a Buick Riviera, of course.

Which means the low and rakish look of a Convertible—a solid steel roof overhead—and no center posts in the side window areas to obstruct your view.

But that's only the beginning.

Here you get two extra doors. They open to the rear compartment. So no one in the front has to move when someone gets into or out of the rear.

Here you get massive half-pillars on either side on which the front doors latch and the rear doors hinge. (That's why you see no center posts above the door line.)

Here, too, you get wholly new structural principles in body design and strength that give this beauty the extra safety of rock-firm solidity at the top, sides and bottom.

And here—bless those Buick engineers!—you get a lot more room in the rear compartment. For the 4-Door Riviera gives you over 9 inches more hiproom and 5 inches more legroom—yet with no increase in wheelbase or over-all car length.

So we repeat—you certainly ought to come in and see this stunning new kind of hardtop.

It's the last word in beauty, comfort, convenience. It's available in Buick's two lowest-priced Series—the SPECIAL and the CENTURY. And it's all Buick—power, ride, handling—and the spectacular performance of Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

Drop in today—tomorrow at the latest—and learn what Buick's all-time record sales year can mean to you in the way of a whopping-big trade-in deal.

*Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.
